Technology summary

The technology has 3 sub-system or trees known as Development, Battles and Auxiliary. Every new clan starts with 0 technologies and to unlock them you must upgrade them slowly; you can use either free donations or rubies.

The development tree is used for stuff such as increasing the maximum resources that are raid-proof in a base, faster building, and research speed, increase of production speed, lower consumption of troops and increase the load of resources your formation can carry.

The battle tree is used for PvE and PvP, it increases the stats and training speed of your troops and increases the marching speed of your rallies, it also gives you more experience points to upgrade your survivors when you're killing NPC.

The auxiliary tree is the most important sub-system when it comes to teamwork, clan and member growth, it allows the clan to increase its max members and the outposts it can build, it increases the build and research speed and clan depot capacity, the most important function of this tree is ability to increase the damage you do to foreign clans buildings during battles while decreasing the damage your clan receives.
